Three reasons for users to choose CHAENG girth gear

Steel castings account for a large part of the entire machinery and equipment, and most of them are key parts of mechanical equipment. It can be said that the quality of steel castings determines the performance and life of the entire machinery and equipment to some extent. Therefore, customers will choose high-quality large-scale steel casting products. Then, what are the outstanding Chinese large steel casting factories? According to the user's reputation, CHAENG (Great Wall Steel Casting) is one of many outstanding casting factories.

- Years of production experience, assured product quality

CHAENG is a professional manufacturer of cast steel parts for cement machinery, ceramic machinery, and hydroelectric bridges in China. Since its establishment in 2007, it has been focusing on the research, development, processing and casting of large steel casting parts, and has already possessed rich production experience and mature technology solutions.

In order to ensure the product quality of large steel castings, CHAENG has also introduced advanced casting equipment and casting technology at home and abroad. All products are self-manufactured by CHAENG, and the product quality is trustworthy.

- Complete product range with high-end quality

After years of development, CHAENG has formed a diversified product system. The main products include pinion gears, large girth gears, kiln rolling rings (kiln tyre), kiln supporting rollers, slag pots, cast steel joints, carbon steel parts, steel rolling mill steel castings and other large steel casting products, to meet the diverse needs of customers.

- Convenient transportation

CHAENG is located in the national sustainable development area - Mengzhuang Town, Huixian City. With a beautiful environment and convenient transportation, it is only one
